

To whom it may concern

Florence, September 2017

We met Melanie Troxler as a talented student at The Florence Art Studio, showing diligence and strong determination to improve her artistic level.

Based on that we established a business relationship aimed at developing our social media activity.

We needed to develop and better channel our communication, we found she had the right skills for this and we started to co-operate.

In this new role we could appreciate her positive character, orientation to organization, focus on objectives, team working and problem solving.

Tangible results have been achieved and her contribution has been fundamental.

We would be pleased to have her again with us and would recommend her unhesitatingly.
